STANLEY-JAMES SLATE PUT OVER

DEMOCRATS IN CONVENTION
MADE NO PROTEST AT DOM-INATION OF LEADERS.

HOLBROOK IS ELECTED

Ohio County Man Will Go As Delegate to St. Louis From 4th District.

Lexington, Ky., May 24.—The State and National Administrations were endorsed, the appointment of Louis D. Brandeis as a justice of the Supreme Court approved; delegates to the National Convention elected and a new party organization perfected at the Democratic State Convention, which adjourned shortly before midnight, after prolonged sessions, notable chiefly for unanimity of purpose.

The announced program of Gov. Stanley and United States Senator James was carried out to the letter by a convention in absolute harmony with their views.

Beckham Merely Spectator.

If any delegate was not in sympathy with an action taken he did not make it known by speaking or voting.

United States Senator J. C. W. Beckham, who was hissed at the 1915 convention, occupied a seat toward the rear of the stage at both sessions today. Several times during lulls in the proceedings, delegates called upon him to speak, but the request at no time became clamorous. Senator Beckham did not respond, and apparently took no part in the proceedings save that of a spectator.

Logan Permanent Chairman.

Upon recommendation of the Committee on organization, which reported shortly after 10 o'clock, Attorney General M. M. Logan was elected permanent chairman of the convention. The temporary secretaries were made permanent. The report of the committee, with the following recommendations, was adopted in full.

For delegates from the State-at-large to the National Convention—Senator Ollie M. James, Senator J. C. W. Beckham, Gov. A. O. Stanley, former Senator J. N. Camden, Mayor Buschmeyer, of Louisville; former Gov. James B. McCreary, Judge Allie W. Young and Lieut. Gov. James D. Black.

For National Committeeman—Gen. W. B. Haldeman, of Louisville.

Fourth District.

Delegates to National Convention—H. T. McElroy, of Marion County, and Rowan Holbrook, of Ohio County.

Alternates to National Convention—W. H. Merriot, of Hardin County, and D. S. Richardson, of Meade County.

Member State Executive Committee—Charles J. Hugbard, of LaRue County.

Member State Central Committee—W. C. Montgomery, of Hardin County.

Elector—Frank Withers, of Meade County.

SEATTLE FAMILY BOASTS OF EDUCATED RABBIT

Seattle, Wash., May 22.—Benjamin Bunny is Seattle's smartest rabbit. He is large in size, maltese and white in color and so intelligent that his mistress, Miss Alice Warner, challenges the world to produce his equal. Miss Warner is at present a student at Carleton College, Northfield, Minn., but during her absence the members of her family have not neglected Benjamin's education, so that his present repertoire of tricks is, for a rabbit, somewhat extensive.

Benjamin can and will do the following astonishing things:

Play hide and seek with the children, apparently laughing heartily at the frolic.

When told it is "bedtime for bunnies" he runs across the lawn and flattens himself on the grass.

When told to dig a hole he will go to work instantly and quits only at a stern command. If not told to dig a hole, he digs twice a day anyway, being methodical in his pleasures.

When left alone never leaves limits indicated by some member of the family.

Is a bon companion of a cat named Kelly (no, the cat won't eat the rabbit because a rabbit has a kick in his hind legs like a mule), and now the Warners are trying to teach the cat to pat the rabbit.

Benjamin's favorite dainties are raspberry jam and raisins. His diet includes carrots—but he does not think much of them—white crackers and a potato a day. He must have the potato to be happy.

Benjamin was brought to the Warner home four years ago on Valentine Day. The day after he arrived Mr. Warner commenced teaching him, telling him he would have to sit up if he wanted his head rubbed. In ten minutes Benjamin had learned the trick and purred contentedly during the massage.

Benjamin is reputed to be a full-blooded Dutch rabbit, and the Warners say they have never found another marked as he is or half so smart.

OWENSBORO HARDWARE FIRM IS BANKRUPT

Owensboro, Ky., May 23.—W. A. Guenther & Sons, one of the oldest hardware firms in Western Kentucky filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States Court this morning. The liabilities are given at $110,000 and the assets at $186,000. It has been known for some time that an effort was being made by the members of the firm to reach an agreement with the creditors to prevent the bankruptcy proceedings, but it was learned that an effort would be made to enforce several claims and the petition was filed today. J. Ed Guenther is head of the concern. The stock of goods is listed at $80,000.

OHIO COUNTY WHEAT IS BADLY DAMAGED

HESSIAN FLY SAID TO HAVE CUT CROP NEARLY HALF—HAD GOOD START.

Reports coming from many parts of the county say that the appearance of the dreaded Hessian fly and its destructive work has cut this year's wheat crop nearly in half. Early in the spring it was thought that a bumper crop would be raised but many fields later appeared to have been burned over.

Many fields of once promising wheat have been so irreparably damaged that they are being plowed and planted in corn. It is roughly estimated that near twenty per cent of the crop will be plowed under. At least thirty per cent of the crop sowed last fall will produce no yield.

The Hessian fly is said to have been brought to this country many years ago. It is thought that the fly, or the eggs, were concealed in some straw during the voyage, and liking the new country they at once continued their life's work—destroying the fruits of the labors of man. The egg is deposited in the boot of the wheat stalk and when the insect is hatched it feels the stalk. The fly multiplies very fast and if the wheat comes again after being destroyed the first time it is likely to be attacked the second time.

FORMER OHIO COUNTY BOY DELEGATE TO CHICAGO

The following is an extract from a Milan County, Texas paper, under the head "Dr. Renfrow Honored."

J. R. G. B. Renfrow, of this city attended the Sixth Congressional District Republican Convention at Hearne last Saturday, and was honored by that body by being elected a delegate to the Republican National Convention which convenes in Chicago on the 7th of June.

It has been more than a quarter of a century since a Milan county man has had this honor, and Dr. Renfrow is receiving congratulations from all sides.

Dr. Renfrow is a former Ohio Co., boy who went west and located in Rockdale, Tex., about 19 years ago. He comes of a long line of Republicans, is the son of the late Edward C. Renfrow of this county and grandson of Russell Renfrow also deceased of Grayson county each of whom were staunch Republicans. He is a brother of Mrs. S. J. Wedding of this city.

BRYAN MAY RUN ON DRY TICKET

PROHIBITION NOMINATION FOR PRESIDENCY MAY BE OFFER-ED COMMONER.

HAS MADE THREE RACES

Sulzer, Foss, Hanley, Miles and Hobson Among Others Mentioned.

Chicago, May 23.—If he will consent to make the race, William Jennings Bryan may be selected as the candidate for President by the Prohibition party. Recent statements of Mr. Bryan before the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, at Saratoga Springs, in which he is quoted as declaring that he had about reached the point where he could no longer follow a political party which refused to endorse national prohibition, was discussed by Prohibition party leaders here today.

They expressed the belief that if the Democratic National Convention at St. Louis declined to adopt a national prohibition plank in its platform, Mr. Bryan might consent to become the candidate of the Prohibition party for President. The Prohibition National Convention will be held at St. Paul July 19 to 22, and will be preceded by a rally in the interest of the movement to obtain pledges from 5,000,000 citizens to vote only for candidates for public office who favor national prohibition.

Other candidates for President being considered by the party leaders are: Former Gov. William Sulzer, of New York; former Gov. Eugene Foss, of Massachusetts; Frank Hanley, of Indiana; Gen. Nelson A. Miles, of Washington, D. C., and Richard P. Hobson, of Alabama.

The convention promises to be the most important in the history of the party in the opinion of the leaders. One suggestion that may come before the convention involves the entire reorganization of the party under a new name.

A referendum vote of the Executive Committee is now being taken by mail to select a temporary chairman for the convention. The two candidates being considered are W. P. F. Ferguson, of Franklin, Pa., and Daniel A. Poling, of Boston.

The convention this year will consist of 1,254 delegates and an equal number of alternates.

PARDON DENIED.

Stanley Rebukes Ohio Co. Man Who Betrayed Step-daughter.

Frankfort, Ky., May 23.—Montreville Daugherty, of Ohio county, sentenced in 1912 to serve a term of ten to twenty years for wronging his step-daughter, was refused a pardon by Gov. Stanley, who said, reciting the facts in the case:

"Daugherty pleaded guilty to the charge of his step-daughter, who at the time was under sixteen years of age. It is inconceivable that this man could have maintained such relations with this girl. He was in loco parentis to her from immature childhood and should have regarded her as his daughter. Every instinct of nature and of decency should have made him protect and not debauch this young girl.

"It is urged in his defense that she was a mature woman and possessed of physical charms which tempted the passions of this man, and that he was inexperienced and ignorant. It does not require culture or experience to prevent the most stupid and illiterate in the commission of such offenses.

"It is not to be regretted that the record shows he left a wife and children, who are absolutely dependent. Had he at the time of the commission of this crime any regard for his wife or children, he would never have committed the crime which he admits.

"I find nothing in his record to justify me in exercising executive clemency or turning loose upon society a man totally lacking in every sense of his duty to it, and for that reason executive clemency is refused."—Louisville Times.

BOND ISSUE IS SNOWED UNDER

PROPOSITION TURNED DOWN BY VOTE OF OVER SEVEN TO ONE.

HARTFORD YIELDS BLOW

Every Precinct in the County Gives Large Majority Against the Improvement of Roads.

Striking with an evident intent to kill the voters of Ohio County dealt an awful blow to the proposition to issue bonds to the amount of $300,000 for the improvement of roads and bridges at the election Saturday. Not a precinct in the county gave a majority for the bonds. Contrary to expectations in many of the rural districts Hartford gave a large majority against the proposition. The voters in certain parts of the county seemed to form an idea that the county seat would reap the greater part of the benefit from such an issue of bonds and upon that ground many of them voted "No." Since Hartford gave such a large vote against the proposition, however, many of them are said to be changing over.

The election was very different from a political contest as very little electioneering was done by either side. There was no crowd around the polls and all was quiet. The vote was taken and hurriedly counted, some of the ballot boxes reaching the county clerk's office Saturday evening and night.

The election commissioners gave out the official count Tuesday as follows:

FISKE SAYS DANIELS DISREGARDED LETTER

New York, May 23.—The American Defense Society today received from President Wilson his reply to a request made on May 14 for an investigation of a controversy between Secretary of the Navy Daniels and Rear Admiral Fiske, regarding a letter the Admiral declared he had personally delivered to the Secretary calling attention to what he characterized as deficiencies in the navy. Mr. Daniels contended that the letter was handed to the chief clerk of the department and was not seen by him.

The President's letter included a memorandum from Secretary Daniels stating that he accepted Admiral Fiske's statement regarding the letter, but that personally he had no recollection of the incident.

Good Price For Hogs.

That farmers of Kentucky and nearby States are getting back into "clover" is indicated by the receipts of livestock at the local yards and the splendid prices being realized. Receipts of hogs at the Bourbon stockyards this week amounted to 19,239 head, the largest in years, and prices have been as high as $10 and have ranged between $9.65 and $10 throughout the week.

Prices are holding the best level in several years. Receipts of lambs this week amounted to 6,035, the heaviest so far this season and prices have ruled strong at an unusually high level. Indications are for a big lamb season and fancy prices. Cattle receipts are picking up at a splendid rate. Farmers appear to be better stocked with cattle and hogs than for several years.—Louisville Courier Journal.

POST-OFFICE LOBBY IS CHARGED TO BURLESON

Washington, May 23.—Postmaster General Burleson "and his assistants" are charged with having organized a post-office lobby in a resolution introduced to-day by Representative Good, of Iowa, directing a committee inquiry. The resolution is an outgrowth of a flood of telegrams and letters from post-masters and others, urging the rejection of Senate amendments to the Post-office Appropriation Bill regarding rural free delivery routes.

Princeton To Be Lighted.

Princeton, Ky., May 20.—After nineteen months of darkness, the streets of Princeton are again to be lighted, beginning June 1, a contract having been signed by Mayor R. W. Lisansky and officers of the Princeton Light & Power Company, the City Council concurring.

The prices agreed upon are: For sixty-candle-power lamps, $1.25 per month; former price $1.95; for 400-candle-power lamps, $3.50 each per month; former price, $6. The minimum rate after June 1 is to be $1. where it was formerly $1.25.

DEMOCRATS MEET IN COUNTY CONVENTION

DELEGATES SENT TO STATE
MEETING AT LEXINGTON
WITHOUT INSTRUCTIONS.

The Ohio county Democrats met in County Convention in the office of Judge Wilson, in the court house in Hartford, Saturday afternoon pursuant to the regular call. C. M. Crowe was elected chairman of the convention with Heber Matthews, editor of the Herald, as secretary. Other than with the endorsement of Rowan Holbrook as delegate to the National convention from the fourth district the delegates were sent to Lexington uninstructed.

Resolutions endorsing Wilson, Stanley, James, Beckham, Johnson and the Kentucky State Legislature were passed. An attempt was made to endorse the candidacy of T. Scott Mayers for a delegate to the St. Louis convention but the amendment was voted down. The vote stood 17 against; 7 for. Total vote cast, 24.

REPRESENTATIVE ARRESTED

Frank Green Charged With Assault and Battery and Carrying Weapon.

Carrollton, Ky., May 23.—Representative Frank Greene, and Frank Golden, a liveryman, were arrested this afternoon by Sheriff Joe Robinson on charges of assault and battery, following affidavits sworn to by Sheriff Robinson. Later in the afternoon, on an affidavit of George Turner, a warrant was issued for Greene charging him with carrying concealed a deadly weapon, and Greene filed an affidavit charging Golden with carrying a deadly weapon concealed, but no warrant had been issued on this affidavit tonight.

Golden was tried this afternoon before the County Judge on the assault and battery charge and dismissed. Greene's trial on the two charges has been set for Saturday afternoon. He gave bond for his appearance.

The warrants for the arrest of the two men followed an altercation between them about 2:30 o'clock this afternoon in front of Golden's livery stable. Several blows were passed between them, but neither was hurt. The men were separated by Sheriff Robinson.

'AMERICA FIRST' ADVISES BISHOP

RT. REV. WOODCOCK CALLS FOR FINER PATRIOTISM IN AD-DRESS AT LOUISVILLE.

THRILLS HIS HEARERS

Scores "Hyphenates" and "Peace at-Any-Price" Propagandists at Council Session.

Converts to the cause of Americanism, full-blooded and virile, were won if there happened to be any present at yesterday's session of the Diocesan Council of Kentucky and "hyphenates" or "peace-at-any-price" propagandists to hear the stirring annual address of the Rt. Rev. Charles Edward Woodcock, bishop of Kentucky.

The bishop thrilled his hearers, some of the most prominent churchmen in the State, with an appeal for "America first" and finer patriotism among Americans, regardless of political or ancestral ties.

Discussing conditions growing out of the European war, the bishop said: "The atmosphere has cleared a little, but the clouds still hang low. Knowing conditions, we can not look upon these grave matters without deep and anxious concern. But we are not all so inert nor yet so supine as to be willing to join those who clamor for peace at any price.

"Surely, we want peace. We want it so deeply that, as a nation, we will go the whole length of honor for its maintenance, but we will not go so far as to compromise our honor to secure a place which would terminate in national disgrace. Peace, if we can preserve it—but peace at its own price—no matter what it costs—is the only condition on which we are worthy of peace.

"This is no time for uncertainties in American citizenship, either hyphenated or political. American citizenship has but one hallmark and that is loyalty to this land. * * * We need, in this hour American manhood—straight, full-blooded, unafraid and undeffiled."

Must Stand Together.

That portion of Bishop Woodcock's address on the need of Americans standing together in a time of stress followed a discussion of other matters immediately connected with the church. The country's best welfare, the Bishop said, depended on our putting America foremost first and all the time and preventing any set of citizens of any nationality from embarrassing our Government.—Louisville Herald.

SENATE COMMITTEE O. K.'S BRANDEIS APPOINTMENT

Washington, May 24.—The Senate Judiciary Committee today recommended confirmation of the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis to the Supreme Court by a strict party vote, all the Democrats voting for confirmation and all the Republicans against it.

Supporters of the nominee plan to ask for action on the recommendations by the Senate tomorrow at an executive session, while the opposing Senators are planning to force, if possible, open sessions for the consideration of the nomination. Prolonged debate may result, but Mr. Brandeis' friends claim he will be confirmed before the recess for the national conventions begin on June 2.

GOOD PREMIUM FOR COUNTY ROAD BONDS

Hopkinsville, May 23.—Christian county's $400,000 4 1-2 per cent road bonds, the sale of which was postponed from April 20 because of the unsettled financial conditions, resulting from the German imbroglio, were sold Monday to J. C. Meyer and company, both of Cincinnati on their joint bid of 101.63 or a premium on the issue of $4,120.50.

Owensboro, Ky., May 25.—The Daviess County road bonds to the amount of $600,000 were sold Saturday to a Cincinnati firm at a premium of $4,200. Contracts for the construction of rock roads will be let immediately.

STORIES OF AMERICAN HISTORY TOLD AGAIN

WASHINGTON, LIKE ALL VALUABLE MEN, HAD HIS ENEMIES.

The most trying of the many things that General Washington had to contend with during the dismal winter he spent at Valley Forge were the jealous and ambitious men who tried to tarnish his fair name and fame, and attempted to weaken the affection of the people for him. Among those designated at the time as the chief actors in "wounding the general in the house of his friends," were General Thomas Conway, a foreign officer of great pretensions; General Gates and Mifflin. Samuel Adams, with two or three other of the New England delegates in Congress and one of the Virginia deputies.

Whether the movement originated in personal ambition, or a sincere conviction of the necessity of making a change on account of the alleged "Fabian slowness" of Washington, is a question of difficult solution. The measures adopted by the opponents of the chief were certainly the reverse of open, manly, generous, pure and disinterested patriotism and deserve, as they received at the time, the unqualified reprobation of honest men.

It is believed that Conway was the most active man among the secret enemies of Washington. He was possessed of considerable literary and military abilities and had the advantage of thirty years of experience in the art of war. Although an Irishman, he received his military training in France and came to America from that country. He had expected to receive the commission and military pay of a major general. He was disappointed at the outset, for Congress gave him only the commission of a brigadier. Hoping for promotion, he joined the army of Washington at Morristown.

Conway's boastful, intriguing and presumptuous manner disgusted Washington, and when it was rumored that he was to be promoted by Congress, Washington wrote a letter to that body remonstrating against it. The fact, coming to the ears of Conway, he offered his resignation and asked permission to leave the army. Congress would not accept it, but appointed him inspector general of the army with the rank of major general. This act is evidence of work in the supreme legislature unfriendly to the commander-in-chief. Gates and Lee, Englishmen born, and officers in other wars, also showed their impatience in holding subordinate positions, each deeming himself superior to Washington.

The irritated and talented Conway was ready to foster discontent in the public mind, and he was doubtless the willing cat's paw of Gates or his friends in making covert attacks upon the military character of the commander-in-chief. So prominent does Conway appear in the whole transaction that it is known in history as "Conway's Cabal."

The first important move in the matter was the sending of anonymous letters to the president of Congress, and to Patrick Henry, then Governor of Virginia. Similar letters were sent to different members of Congress and to the officers of the State Legislature.

Washington was early apprised of these secret machinations, but he suffered in silence. "My enemies," he said, in a letter to the president of Congress, when the matter became subject of correspondence, "take an ungenerous advantage of me. They know I cannot combat their insinuations without disclosing secrets which it is of the utmost moment to conceal."

There is no doubt that Gates, Mifflin and Conway were for some time enemies in the endeavors to effect the removal of Washington, but it has been thought that Gates and Mifflin were only working in a patriotic sense to advance what they thought were the true interests of the country.

The true character of Conway, so early discovered by Washington, became at length well understood by Congress. Finally when he found out he had incurred the enmity of many of the officers of the army, he wrote to Congress an impertinent and complaining letter, and intimated his desire to resign. A motion to accept his resignation was immediately carried. Finally Conway was wounded in a duel with General Cadwallader, and, as he believed his end was near, he wrote an apologetic letter to Washington as a reparation for the personal injuries he had inflicted. But he recovered and lived many years. He left the country before the close of the war and returned to France.—Louisville Evening Post.

Cavities Determine Volume of Voice. That the reinforcement of a tone produced by the human vocal cords depends not upon lung capacity or the size of the body but upon the size and depth of the resonance cavities in the head, is the claim of a teacher of music who has been studying this question for several years, in which time he has measured the heads of more than 12,000 persons. The June Popular Mechanics Magazine tells how these measurements are taken in judging voices. This teacher classifies heads into three groups: round, oval, and long. He has found that round heads are best adapted to vocal gymnastics because of the symmetry of the cavities. Persons with oval or long heads have voices less adapted to a variety of dramatic effort, but frequently have sufficient depth of cavity to reinforce the tone so that it can be heard a long distance.

A test of 100 vocal pupils, all of whom were given similar instruction for a year, showed that the voices of persons having particularly large resonating cavities had attained a volume far in excess of those whose head measurements were less than average.

Dangers of Draft.

Drafts feel best when we are hot and perspiring, just when they are most dangerous and the result is Neuralgia, Stiff Neck, Sore Muscles or sometimes an attack of Rheumatism. In such cases apply Sloan's Liniment. It stimulates circulation to the sore and painful part. The blood flows freely and in a short time the stiffness and pain leaves. Those suffering from Neuralgia or Neuralgic Headache will find one or two applications of Sloan's Liniment will give grateful relief. The agonizing pain gives way to a tingling sensation of comfort and warmth and quiet rest and sleep is possible. Good for Neuritis too. Price 25c at your druggist.

CHINESE CONTRIBUTES TO ROOSEVELT CAMPAIGN FUND

New York, May 17.—Of the many letters that came to the headquarters of the Roosevelt Nonpartisan League, with contributions toward the league campaign fund, was one from Quan Yick Nam, a Chinaman. Quan sent a check for $15, which included the following letter:

"I send $15 for three more friends. We believe your work greatest possible for interest of great American citizen. We will do all we can success your great work."

When the letter was shown to Roosevelt he said:

"By George, I knew him when I was police commissioner."

Mr. Roosevelt then went on to recall that when he became president, Quan sent him two Chinese vases. Unable to accept them, Mr. Roosevelt had the vases returned, but a few days later Quan arrived at the White House with his entire family, apparently determined to put up a fight if necessary to have his presents installed in the White House.

Mr. Roosevelt, finally, to avoid any further unpleasantness, accepted the vases.

Colds Quickly Relieved.

Many people cough and cough—from the beginning of Fall right through to Spring. Others get cold after cold. Take Dr. King's New Discovery and keep it in the house. "It is certainly a great medicine and I keep a bottle of it continually on hand" writes W. C. Jesseman, Frankonia, N. H. Money back is not satisfied but it nearly always helps.

WORTH OF AEROPLANE IN WAR IS REALIZED

U. S. OFFICIALS LATE IN GRASPING OPPORTUNITY OFFERED BY INVENTORS.

(By Jonathan Winfield)

Washington, May 22.—The growing importance of the aeroplane as a military adjunct is emphasized by the recent appointment of a board of army officers to make a complete study of army aviation. The aeroplane, like many Yankee inventions, was immediately taken up by European nations and developed beyond the dreams of the first American pioneers in the art of flying.

Especially was this true in Germany and France. Immediately after the successful demonstrations of the Wright Brothers at Fort Meyer, in 1908, France and Germany began to appropriate millions for the development of aircraft. The United States up to the present time, has been content to jog along far in the rear of nations who admittedly gained their ideas of aviation in the first instance from this country.

The European war has demonstrated not only the feasibility of the aeroplane for reconnoitering and scout duty, but as an instrument of offensive and defensive warfare as well. It is probable that as a result of the studies of the board of officers just named by Maj. Gen. Scott, chief of staff of the army, at the instance of Secretary Baker, congress will be asked of the military service to give aeronautics a separate standing, such as the cavalry, infantry and artillery arms of the service now enjoy.

Then steps will be taken to develop aviation as an instrument of offensive and defense. The campaign now in progress in Mexico has shown the efficiency of the aeroplanes as scouts. Formerly the cavalry constituted the eyes of the army. The importance of the cavalry has not been superseded nor is it likely to be in the opinion of army officers who have studied the effect of the development. But in the future, the aeroplane according to these officers is bound to be the "eyes of the cavalry."

Landing Is Difficult.

While the army is busy developing the aeroplane for land service, the navy is not behind in its work with hydroplanes. On the contrary, the navy admittedly has the advantage over the army, inasmuch as landing on the water is a matter of comparatively safety. But to bring an aeroplane to earth in an uncertain terrain, constitutes and is liable for a long time to constitute the greatest difficulty for the army to overcome.

At the present time constructors are experimenting on a new type of flying boat which has 200 horsepower. The army aeroplanes so far have developed only 90 and 160 horsepower. The latest naval hydroplanes have hulls 40 feet long with a six-foot beam. It even has a covered cabin of sufficient height to permit standing room for five or six persons. This boat when not in use is anchored in harbor much like any other war craft.

How Mrs. Harrod Got Rid of Her Stomach Trouble.

"I suffered with stomach trouble for years and tried everything I heard of, but the only relief I got was temporary until last spring I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and procured a bottle of them at our drug store. I got immediate relief from that dreadful heaviness after eating and from pain in the stomach," writes Mrs. Linda Harrod, Fort Wayne, Ind. Obtainable everywhere.

The Forty Farmers of Fairfield.

(By J. H. Thomas.) In amassing their colossal fortunes the Rockefellers and Carnegies have built wiser than they knew, by working out a system of industrial progress applicable alike to every class of investment. It consists simply in combining the capital of the many under the management of the fittest to control; or more tersely stated, the capitalization of the efficiency hitherto mans pride of absolute freedom to manage his own business has resulted in individual and isolated effort attended by both the measure of his incapacity and the waste of needless competition.

In the Forty Farmers of Fairfield I shall attempt to narrate the application of the new conservation to rural enterprise. Fairfield is a village way station in one of the central states, and the community is one of small farms of moderate fertility. Ben Holt, one of these Fairfield farmers, had read much of the scraps of literature that had fallen in his way and was regarded as the oracle of the neighborhood. Holt was proud of his community leadership and was ever watchful for an opportunity to impress his importance upon his neighbors. After much study of the manner of the building up of the country's great corporations he assembled forty farmers of his community to form a corporation after the manner of standard oil and U. S. steel. The bylaws and constitution are too lengthy for reproduction here but they covered every detail of the co-operative contract. Each member was to separately cultivate his own farm, and no liability of one for another should be incurred, but general rules governed all. A board of directors, of which Holt was chairman, was given general control. The first action of the board was the employment of an expert farm demonstrator, a graduate of one of the best agricultural colleges of the country. Following the directions of a hired man in the conduct of their own business came a little awkward at first, but under Holts urging that such was the methods by which the big fortunes of the country had been built up they soon grew accustomed to the changed order. The demonstrator's superior knowledge of the soil and its treatment commanded respect, and while no penalty was provided for failure to follow his advice results soon forced the closest observance of it. The demonstrator rode from farm to farm, carefully examining the condition of the soil as well as of the growing crops, and so successful was his work that before the first season was half over his telephone bell was ringing till late at night with inquiries about planting this, cultivating that or harvesting the other. Here were forty men with brawn muscle and industry and with soil and team and tools, directed by brained and skilled efficiency. It could not fail. If Smith's ground was heavy and Brown's dry Smith's teams helped Brown, if Jones harvests were green and Perkins ripe Jones reapers went into Perkins field. Knowing the conditions of forty farms the demonstrator could readily arrange these convenient exchanges of labor.

As purchasing agent for the Forty Farmers of Fairfield the demonstrator was diligently sought out by the selling agents of fertilizers, farm machinery etc., and by buying wholesale a large saving was effected for the co-operation. Another considerable sum was saved to these farmers by the shipment through the demonstrator of their live stock direct to the city stockyards. The marketing of the matured crops was no longer a problem for the farmers of Fairfield. Millers for a hundred miles around sent agents to buy their grain, commission men and dealers from the city came out to buy their fruit and their hay. The wool merchant came for their wool and the prices were the best and the treatment the fairest the market afforded.

Ben Holt in his campaign for co-operation and economy thought four stores with seven clerks in the small village of Fairfield too great a tax on the community, and set about a correction. "The Forty Farmers of Fairfield," said he to the assembled merchants "represents most of the trade that comes to this burg, and we think we are supporting too many idle merchants here. The one giving us the best terms on the goods we buy and the produce we sell gets our trade. What do you say gentlemen?" When a satisfactory bargain had been driven with the most enterprising merchant, that saved each family more than fifty dollars a year, one of the other merchants said. "When the rest of us are out of business and Speed & Co. have no competition you will see what you will pay for your goods." "Don't worry young man," replied Holt, "Old Jim Speed knows that a Jew would come all the way from Palestine to supply the trade of the Forty Farmers of Fairfield."

After carefully checking up the corporations business at the end of the first year it was found that, after deducting the salary of the farm demonstrator, net income of the forty farmers exceeded the previous year by nearly nine thousand dollars, and it all grew out of Ben Holt's notions of co-operation and economy.

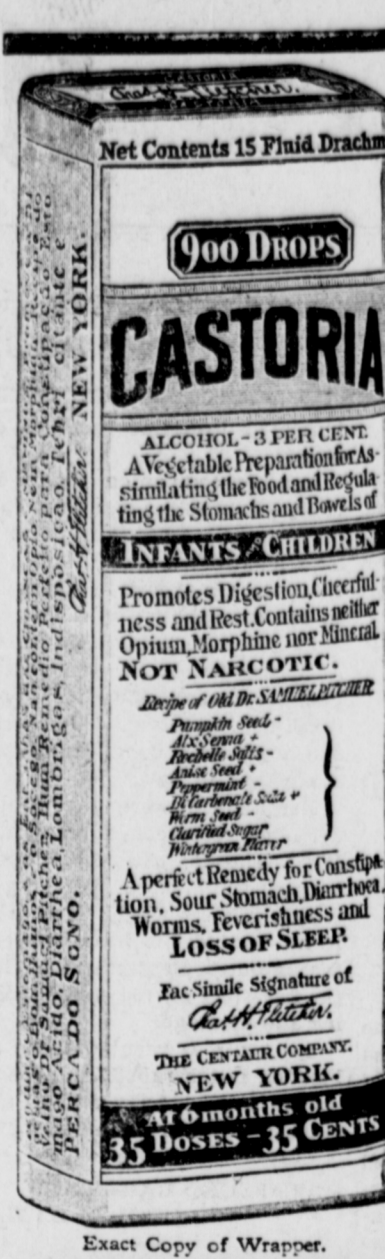

If this gets past the Editor's desk we shall later narrate Ben Holt's experience with Six Block in St. Joe.

A Mistake in the Policy of the Bethlehem Steel Company

To the People:

The Senate of the United States has passed a bill to spend $11,000,000 of the People's money to build a government armor plant. The measure is now before the House of Representatives.

It is said that manufacturers of armor have "gouged" the country in the past, and that a government plant is necessary to secure armor more cheaply.

The mistake of the Bethlehem Steel Company has been that it has kept quiet.

We have allowed irresponsible assertions to be made for so long without denial, that many people now believe them to be proven facts.

We shall make the mistake of silence no longer.

Henceforth we shall pursue a policy of publicity. Misinformation will not be permitted to go uncorrected.

It is and has been the policy of our Company to deal with the American Government fairly and squarely.

We shall henceforth place the details of our relations with the Government before the American People.

The United States has for twenty years obtained the highest grade of armor and has paid a lower price for it than has any other great naval power.

Figures officially compiled for the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs from the Naval Year Book show that under conditions prevailing just before the European war, the chief naval powers of the world were paying these prices for armor:

England, $503 per ton; France, $460; Germany, $490; Japan, $490; UNITED STATES, $425.

A government plant cannot make armor any cheaper than we can do it; and—

We are prepared to manufacture armor at any price which the Government itself shall name as fair. THAT BEING SO, SHOULD $11,000,000 OF THE PEOPLE'S MONEY BE WASTED TO BUILD A GOVERNMENT PLANT?

WILL AGAIN SEEK PARDON FOR SON

MOTHER OF SLAYER OF FATHER BELIEVES CONVICT HAS PAID PENALTY.

Lexington, Ky., May 22.—To buy a Bluegrass farm and build a new home for herself and her son, Beach, is the dream of Mrs. Louellen Hargis, of Jackson, who is now recovering from a nervous breakdown, and planning as she rests on her bed in the Good Samaritan hospital to renew the fight of years to secure a parole for her boy.

Mrs. Hargis believes Beach will shortly be allowed to walk through the grim portal of the gray stone house at Frankfort, where he is held for killing his father, Judge James Hargis, and lend his strong arms to the support of his mother in the sunset years.

Cheerful in spite of the worn and broken nerves, and hopeful with a hope that is born of love and faithfulness, Mrs. Hargis is today resting in a sunny room at the Good Samaritan, planning what she will do if Beach is restored to her. Her indomitable courage is all that has kept her alive through trials that, to use her expression, "would have killed a dozen women before now." She still has the courage to believe that governors and prison boards will decide that Beach has suffered enough for his misdeed, and that he has earned a chance to go out in the world and try again.

Mrs. Hargis seemed glad to see a reporter who called on her Saturday. She said she was feeling much better than she did when she came here a week ago. Just after an unsuccessful effort to win a parole for her son last November Mrs. Hargis broke down and was compelled to remain in bed for a long time. She was very sick during the winter months and members of the family once despaired of her life.

History of Ireland.

Washington, May 20.—While the eyes of the world were turned towards Ireland and the centers of the Sinn Fein revolt, officials of the National Geographic Society, familiar with every detail of Irish history, recounted stories of former internal strife on the island.

They point out that there have been many stormy scenes in Dublin, the Irish capital, even in its legendary history, as far back as the third century of the Christian era, being filled with stories of conflict. One of the earliest episodes was the defeat of the people of the surrounding province by the inhabitants of the town in 291 A. D.

One of the most tragic events of Dublin's early history is an echo of this hatred of the people of the country districts for those of the city. The occurrence is commemorated in Irish chronicles as the Black Monday of 1209. It was during the Easter holidays of that year, strangely paralleling the time of the present revolt, that the Irish of the surrounding mountains rushed down into the valley of the Liffey river, on whose banks Dublin is situated, and while the inhabitants were celebrating the religious holiday, 500 were killed. The place of the massacre is still known as "Bloody Fields," and for many years, in order to keep alive the sense of outrage against the hill people, the citizens on each anniversary of Black Monday would march to the scene of the massacre, bearing banners inscribed with the legend, "A terror to the Native Irish."

Even in the early days the vigor with which the people of Dublin waged their internecine strife did not lessen the impetuosity with which they entered upon any conflict with a foreign invader. They tore down their churches to secure stones for their walls when preparing for the defense of their city against Edward Bruce in 1315, and when the Irish governor, who had yielded to the enemy, fell into the hands of the defenders, he was brought to Dublin and starved to death.

One of the most spectacular outbreaks of the sixteenth century was that led by Silken Thomas (Sir Thomas Fitzgerald) a daring young nobleman, who, upon hearing that his father had been beheaded in the tower of London, raised a large army and marched to the gates of Dublin, where he was admitted by the intimidated citizens. Shortly afterward, however, when he endeavored to have the city he found the gates locked. He made his escape, carrying with him some of the children of the city, and with these as hostages he managed to secure the release of all his followers. Subsequently this rebellion was quelled and the leaders were executed at Tyburn in 1536.

It was more than a hundred years after the death of Sir Thomas that a conspiracy to seize Dublin was revealed by Owen Connolly on the day before the attempt was to have been made. This was during the rebellion of 1641, and it was Connolly's information that saved Dublin for the King. Cromwell, James II, and William III in turn visited Dublin with armed forces.

Another Fitzgerald loomed up as a factor in Irish unrest about the time of the French revolution. He was Lord Edward Fitzgerald a leader of the United Irishmen, who had received his military training in America, serving under Lord Rawdon in the Revolutionary War. Lord Edward was one of the most picturesque Irish leaders of the 18th century and his beautiful wife, the famous Pamela, was an equally appealing figure in the revolution of 1798, during which Lord Edward was captured and thrown into prison where he died of wounds received in the struggle with the officers who arrested him while in bed.

A greatly-loved Irish patriot and orator, Robert Emmet, headed the revolution of 1803. Emmet, while trying to make his escape after an abortive attempt to seize Dublin Castle, was apprehended as he was saying farewell to Judge Curran's daughter, to whom he was devoted. His speech delivered on the scaffold the following day is one of the best-known examples of impassioned Irish oratory. William Smith O'Brien, from the South of Ireland, was the leader of the rebellion of 1848, in which Dublin took little part. The Fenian Society's activities of 1867, both in Ireland and in America, kept the capital city in a turmoil for many weeks.

Dublin Castle, which figures so conspicuously in the city's uprisings, is an unimposing structure built originally during the first quarter of the 13th century. It covers nearly three times as much ground as the United States Capitol building in Washington. Another building of impressive size, covering five acres, is now occupied by the Bank of Ireland but was formerly used as the House of Parliament. The most famous institution of the city is Dublin University, or Trinity college, founded under charter from Queen Elizabeth in 1591.

Commercially Dublin is famous for its poplins, its whiskey and its porter. At one time its woolen, cotton and linen manufactures were extensive. Huguenots fled to the city and established extensive silk works after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes.

Didn't Work a Day.

A Jewish clerk asked his employer for an increase in wages. The employer answered:

"You admit there are only 365 days in a year; you work only 8 hours a day, therefore there are 16 hours a day in which you do not work; this amounts to 244 days in a year, leaving 121 days. There are 52 Sundays, leaving 69 days; you work only half a day on Saturday, amounting to 26 days, leaving 43 days. You take one hour each day for lunch, making 16 days, leaving 27 days. You take two weeks vacation with pay, amounting to 14 days, leaving 13 days. There are 12 legal holidays, leaving one day, and that day being the Jewish Day of Atonement, you do not come to work."

PAWNS WIFE FOR $30; PAYS $41 TO REDEEM

NEW ORLEANS MAN ADOPTS NOVEL METHOD TO SECURE FUNDS.

New Orleans, May 20.—In January Spurgie Gates, then jobless, faced tough times and an unpaid board bill for himself and wife at C. E. Brown's No. 1802 Bienville street.

Everything of value the couple possessed had found its way into the pawnshops, but still $34 was due Brown, who was growing irate. Gates figured that he had one more possession that he could pawn. It was his spouse.

Would Brown take Mrs. Gates and hold her as security for the uncollected account? Sure! In fact, he beamed upon Gates' proposal. The pawn ticket was duly made out, the wife delivered to the landlord and Gates set out with high resolves.

Today the husband had enough money to get his wife out of pawn. Brown asked for the return of the pawn ticket before delivering his security. Gates couldn't find it. Therefore an argument ensued over the question of principal interest, and the two men fought while the woman sat on her trunk, not knowing whether she was liberated or still a hostage.

Judge W. D. Chamberlain settled the argument. He allowed Brown $41 and Gates to receive back his pledge. Then the judge fined the men $15 apiece and an equal share of court costs for disturbing the peace.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce TOM SPURRIER, of Grayson county, as a candidate for Congress, from the Fourth District, subject to the action of the Republican primary, Saturday, August 5, 1916.

We are authorized to announce the candidacy of A. D. KIRK for the Republican nomination for county attorney of Ohio county. Subject to the action of the Primary Election, Saturday, August 5, 1916.

Carranza is to start 30,000 soldiers in pursuit of Villa. Old boy, I guess you'll give up now.

Villa's wife is in Texas. One way of punishing the bandit, so married men tell us, would be to help her find him.

We never knew how to appreciate the wild hairs on our dome until we saw the bald-headed business manager swatting flies.

Those never-content old sprouts that only a few days ago were wishing for some warm weather are now beefing about the heat.

The Beckham men swallowed everything dished out to them by the Stanley-James crowd at Lexington Wednesday.

Germany says she can't be starved. Well perhaps not, but most any Dutchman can be made die of thirst. The receipt is, give him water only.

It is whispered around in the dress circle that there was some little squabble connected with the indorsement of Mr. Johnson in the Democratic county convention Saturday.

Ohio county will send a delegate to each of the National conventions this summer. Rowan Holbrook was selected to go to the Democratic meeting at St. Louis while M. L. Heavrin goes to Chicago.

The Penrose victory in Pennsylvania has added impetus to the Fairbanks candidacy. Mr. Fairbanks now has Indiana and part of Kentucky and Pennsylvania as a starter at the Chicago convention June 7.

When Wilson went into office he refused to have the regular inaugural ball. Yet, for the last several months he has been doing the hesitation to the music of Villa's band. Or, should we say one-step and then the hesitation?

Another good piece of presidential timber is Gen. Leonard Wood, ex-Chief of Staff of the Army. He would be solidly supported by the preparedness advocates should he be nominated by the Republican party, and the chances are the Colonel would take the stump for him.

The Democrats should not have stopped when they were in that indorsing mood in convention Saturday but should have gone on down the line and indorsed the city government of Mayor Her. They could have made no mistake by doing that but they were taking some very long shots when they gave the O. K. to the Kentucky Legislature and the administration of Governor Stanley.

The strawberry industry is being developed to such an extent in Ohio county that it is only a question of time when we will be compelled to seek a foreign market. Until now Ohio county has not produced more of the red product than she consumed but this year the market is flooded and hundreds of gallons will rot in the bed. This year's crop is a very heavy one, but the acreage is also larger and the market is not increasing in proportion. We had better be preparing for shipment before many more seasons.

It would be unprofessional in Justice Hughes to announce at this time his candidacy for the Republican nomination for the presidency unless he resigned his job. It would be foolish of him to resign the job he now has to make the race unless he was assured of the nomination. He will announce his candidacy if the time is ever ripe. If the prospects never look bright enough he will continue to serve his country on the bench and we will take Roosevelt and lick the stuff out of 'em in November.

We would suggest to the writer who desires to send us political communications not in keeping with the policies of the paper that he turn his splendid talent to subjects more beneficial to Ohio county. Give us a sketch of the conditions of crops in your community. Or, tell us how we can have good roads without bonds. Don't you believe we have just a little to much politics in this country now? The gentlemen in question is too good a friend to this paper for us to refuse him space, but we will appreciate a non-partisan article much more than one contrary to the views of a great majority of our readers.

We have read three editorials this week in which the writers complain about having their attention called to errors in their publications but hearing nothing when a good paper is issued. What else can men of the newspaper profession expect. If we made our papers as good as we would like to have them we would have no time to listen to complaints. If we don't get criticised occasionally it would seem that there was a lack of interest in our work. If a man buys no account goods from the dealer he quickly returns. If the goods are all right he says nothing. Let them jump you occasionally. It adds a little spirit to the campaign of life, and when the compliment does come it is much more appreciated.

DON'T KNOCK ON WOOD.

"And now Gen. Wood is mentioned as a dark horse for the Republican presidential nomination. Better cage your woodcock if you would keep him in the country."—Courier Journal.

The Woodcock was "caged" for an address in Louisville Tuesday and judging from the tone of his speech he would be for Wood in preference to Woodrow.

IT'S OVER, MINUS SHOUTING.

The Bond Issue has met a decisive defeat in Ohio county but so far we have heard little shouting, except from a newspaper and it only meekly boasts of having been aligned with the majority. If it continues its present policy it is likely that in time that privilege will be lost, for Ohio county needs good roads and when the time is ripe she will go about getting them.

A strange thing about the election was the way in which the voters were lined up. The men who should use good roads to the best advantage were in many cases the bitterest opponents of the issue. While on the other hand large tax payers of the cities of the county who own neither horse nor automobile were highly in favor of a bond issue. These men thought they were helping others and lending an uplifting hand to the county, but now that the proposition has been so overwhelmingly defeated it is feared that many of them will oppose another issue.

It is felt by the advocates of the bonds that a good cause has been temporarily lost. Those opposed believe they have acted with wisdom. Time only can tell who is correct, and while waiting for the decision let us forget for the present and hope for the future. We can manage to ford the mud hole and skip over the rough places in the summer, and when the harvest is reaped and the dull days of winter have again made their gloomy appearance we may again take the time to study the road question.

Dog Nurses Wolves.

Richmond, Ky., May 21.—Two wolf cubs, destined to die in a local park because their mother could not nourish them, aroused the mother instinct of a bull terrier that had a litter of pups, and received so much attention from their foster mother that one of her own pups died of inanition and the others also may perish of neglect.

The whining of the half-starved cubs led the terrier to the wolf cage. Her attempts to enter attracted the attention of a park employee, who removed the cubs to the dog kennel, the stepmother fought off her own offsprings until the adopted children had obtained a square meal.

Miss Brown and Mr. Keown of the class of 1916 deserve special mention for the delivery of their orations. The musical part of the program was highly enjoyed by the capacity audience.

Last Sunday was Mothers' Day and following closely was mothers' night for the mothers of the members of the class of 1916 of Hartford College gave a banquet for the class, and many invited guests, in the basement of the Methodist church after the graduating exercises Friday night. There were perhaps seventy-five or a hundred persons present to enjoy the occasion. Rev. B. W. Napier acted as toastmaster and toasts were responded to by members of the class and the guests. Several from out of town were present.

After the banquet many of the graduates returned to their respective homes in other parts of the county, but they will always be kindly remembered by the faculty of Hartford College and the people of the town of Hartford.

TOUGHT TO BE OPEN-MINDED

Newspaper Condemns Democratic Attitude on Dyestuffs.

Once a Tariff reformer, always a Tariff reformer, is good in precept and practice. But even the Democrats who have achieved so brilliant a triumph in reversing the long-established Republican policy of high and always higher Tariffs ought to be open-minded enough to see virtue in an exception to the rule of low and always lower Tariffs when the reasons for it are so sound and apparently convincing as in the case of dyestuffs. The Democratic Senate rejected the proposed increase in duties on coal tar dyestuffs—even though it was accompanied by the placing on the free list of some raw materials for that industry—for all the world as though it had been the entering wedge in a Republican attempt to restore the policy of Protection and exclusion. If ever there was a case for special consideration, apart from questions of general policy, this is one.

Our present plight demonstrates the need of making ourselves independent of Germany as a source of supply for dyestuffs. The path of duty is plain, prudence and a regard for our own interests bring it into view. The Democrats would show wisdom and intelligence if they should concern themselves with finding a way to promote the manufacture of dyestuffs in this country; they cut a sorry figure when they show indifference to a matter of such importance. Mr. Underwood was much in error when he argued that the great German works had been so crippled by the war that they will be unable, after peace has been concluded, to flood this market with dyestuffs, and that therefore no greater protection will be needed. If he were correct as to the facts, that would be the best possible reason for encouraging American manufacture, since if the German supply is to be cut off or much curtailed our textile industries will be greatly embarrassed for years to come. There is no present indication that manufacture of dyestuffs in this country will be developed in any degree equal to the market demand, for Senator Underwood's belief concerning the German factories is not shared by Americans who might be induced to establish plants if they could be assured that they would not be put out of business by German competition when the war is ended.

We need dyestuff factories not only for their immediate product, but as a resource for national defense. The German works are at present active in supplying the material for explosives. We have no such resource, and if we should get into trouble, we should bitterly lament our want of forethought in that higher field of preparedness. The advocates of a higher duty have a very distinct impression that the great German dyestuff concerns have exerted their influence secretly against the effort to establish the industry in this country and against the proposed increase in duty. The disclosure of such a German endeavor would be most unfortunate for the Democrats. But leaving the Germans out of the question altogether, there are urgent reasons why we should take steps to manufacture dyestuffs in this country. It will be an infant industry, there can be no question about that. If Protection is ever to be justified, that is a clear case, so clear that even a Free-Trader who should give it candid and favorable consideration would not be chargeable with inconsistency.—New York Times.

INDIANS GETTING RICH

Territory Allotted to Red Men Now Bringing Large Revenue.

(By Southern Missionary News Bureau.)

Certain tribes of North American Indians, strange as it may seem, are the richest people in the world, in proportion to population. The wealth of the people of the whole United States averages $1,000 per capita, that of the 2,000 Osage Indians of Northeast Oklahoma averages $30,000 per capita. The whole of Osage county, larger than the state of Rhode Island, belongs to this little handful of red men. Since it was allotted to them by the government, oil in great quantity has been discovered and their income last year from this source alone was $560,000, in addition to which they received great returns from their grazing lands.

Other tribes, who years ago were assigned large areas when land was plentiful and of relatively small value have grown immensely rich through natural increase in land values and particularly through the discovery of vast deposits of oil and mineral.

But wealth is a sword that cuts both ways. It is either a great blessing or a great curse, depending on the ability of its possessor to resist its temptations and use it well. To the Indian, untutored, unaccustomed to artificial luxuries and dangers of civilization, a child of nature given to the following of his natural impulses, the vast wealth that has fallen to him is a peril indeed.

"Picture an Osage family," writes Rev. Victor I. Masters, of the Southern Baptist Home Mission board, after a recent visit to this tribe, "the elders yet in blankets and unable to understand the language of the white man who has re-made everything and destroys all possibilities of the wild life, which is all the Indian has ever known. Railroads, freewater, automobiles, gambling, agriculture, telephones, pianos, houses, stores where food may be had as long as the money lasts—both the vices and the virtues of the white man's civilization greatly try the Indian's soul. Whiskey absolutely ruins him."

"He cannot hunt any more; still in his red man's code that is the only dignified and manly way to make a living. Gone the days of the war-path! Horrible as were its deeds, yet war did serve to keep at concert pitch the royal and unhampered soul. Those things are all gone. Instead there is only money, and a line which is cut off from all either he or his ancestors ever knew. The white man has neglected everything. The Indians must either in one or two generations adopt the white man's civilization in its positive and constructed aspects, or fall a victim to the snares and be damned by the vices of that civilization."

Such being the case, the Gospel is the one influence that can save the Indian from his peril and lead him out safely into the new and larger life. A number of the mission boards are earnestly working at the problem and in a great many cases wonder-

STRAY STREAKS.

(By Fluke McFluke.)

One of Hartford's citizens is out, after being laid up for about a week with reported poison ivy. You've had our sympathy Lee, but we console ourselves by the thought that if an all-wise providence hadn't sent this affliction upon you at this time, you might have had something worse.

Why in Sam Hill don't Uncle Tom Edison or some guy invent a straw berry without all that blamed shuck on one end? We are tarnation sore on hearing our wife yell out every morning, Fluke, come here and shuck these berries fer breakfast.

We overheard a lady say tother day that some of the present day Belles were not keeping up with the fashion in the matter of wearing these high water skirts because they had a bow they wished to conceal. Wonder what the lady meant?

With the Unrepaired Brigade.
The man who goes for a day's fishing and al-ways runs out of bait at noon.

A young lady who shins up a cherry tree just before her best beau happens along.

An unmarried woman, dressing, with seventy-two buttons up and down her back.

Three gallant young bloods giving three young ladies a motor boat excursion with just half enough gasoline to make the trip. Al, Ligon and Russel.

A man without a corkscrew.

We handed in the above stuff to King, one of the Sour faced Linotype men, telling him that we would probably slip him a bit more if we could get our think plug to working a little. King said he guessed that he just as well close the Streaks stuff up.

We nearly bought an Automobile last week, we paid the licenses tax, purchased 5 gallons of gasoline and run out of money and the blamed Automobile man balked on turning over the car after we had gone to all this expense.

A bunch of local fans journeyed over to Owensboro Tuesday to see the opening game of the Kitty league season. Henderson took the opener, and so did "Heg."

Sam Keown put in two days work out on the farm which Mrs. Keown bought for he and Gilmore and Sam proceeded to lose his health and went to Dawson Springs yesterday. He will probably remain there until the tax books are turned over, then he will be too busy to farm. See!

First Name Would Do.
Mrs. Moore was engaging a new maid of all work. The new applicant answered all questions satisfactorily. "And what is your name?" quired the lady of the house in conclusion. "Mary," answered the hopeful one. "That being the case," said the new mistress, "we will adopt the English custom and call you by your last name, as we have one Mary in the family already. What is your last name?" "Darling," said the applicant.

Scientific Farming Reclaims Great Tract.

One of the largest and most scientific agricultural enterprises in the eastern part of the United States is a farm in western New York. The June Popular Mechanics Magazine in an illustrated article tells of the scientific methods and up-to-date implements used on this big farm, which has been in the course of development for the last three years. This farm comprises 11,000 acres, and is two miles long and nine miles wide. A trip of 60 miles is required to pay off all the help. The undertaking is backed by New York financiers and is managed by a civil engineer who is also a scientific farmer.

The land comprising his farm was originally a vast, undrained swamp, and its reclamation was accomplished only by employing a dredge which cut a deep main canal, with many lateral branches, through the tract. As the land was drained, lumbermen were put on it to clear off the trees and stumps with axes and dynamite. These workmen were followed by others with five-gang plows, etc., drawn by caterpillar tractors of light construction. These light engines have almost wholly supplanted horses on the farm, and are a source of special interest to the boys of the farmers. One tractor has eight times the pulling power of a horse. Of the 4,000 acres of muck land in the tract, only about 1,000 acres have been reclaimed and are now in use. Much of the farm is devoted to truck gardening conducted on a strictly scientific basis. A cost system is maintained and it is possible to know just what each crop cost. All the produce is prepared for shipment according to factory methods. The crates are made on the farm, a special nailing machine being one of the labor-saving devices used in their construction. The workmen are well provided for with bungalows of modern type and with modern social conveniences, and such improvements as telephones, electric lights, etc. An evidence of the success of the enterprise is that much of the land is now valued at $500 per acre.

FARM DEPARTMENT

The farmers of McCracken county decided that they wanted good cattle, and they asked Prof. W. D. Nichols, of the Kentucky Experiment Station, to be their purchasing agent.

The first idea was to buy mature cows, but he advised against that plan and urged them to buy two year old heifers. Cows cost more by about $25 a head than heifers; are harder to ship; and there is much more difficulty in securing good individuals because dairymen want to keep the good ones, and the buyer gets the inferior cows. Buying heifers gives a better chance for securing good individuals.

A cattleman in Kentucky who has bought many carloads of cattle in Wisconsin, made the statement that less than one third of the mature cows purchased gave satisfaction, while nearly all the heifers had been satisfactory.

The counties which Professor Nichols visited in Wisconsin were Jefferson and Waukesha. Jefferson county has 66 creameries and cheese factories; it sells annually over three million dollars' worth of dairy products and stock. In dairying this section almost equals Denmark.

The farms average about 120 acres, and sell for about $100 to $200 an acre. Prosperity is very evident; money can be borrowed in small sums at 5 per cent, and in large sums at 4 per cent. The dairy business is almost entirely responsible for this prosperity.

These two counties are the best examples in the United States of community breeding. Every farm has stock for sale, and since farmsteads are so close together, buyers are able to visit a large number of them in a limited time. This fact together with the fact that the stock kept are of excellent quality and in good numbers, has resulted in wide advertisement of this region so that buyers come from all parts of the country.

Waukesha county is known as the "Guernsey Capital of America," although the country has nearly as many Holsteins as Guernseys.

In one day during the first week in May, three carloads of cattle were shipped from Jefferson county Montana, three to Tennessee, two to Wyoming and one to New Mexico, all from a single shipping point. Probably other shipments were also made that same day from other points in the county.

This concentration of the cattle breeding industry has had a marked effect on land values. Since buyers are so numerous, sales are made readily and at attractive prices. A condition similar to that is seen in large cities where certain streets become known as headquarters for certain commodities, and buyers go there for that merchandise. This results in the enhancement of real estate values in the neighborhood of automobile rows, millinery streets or wholesale house districts.

The price of cattle in Wisconsin ranges from $100 to $175 for a good young grade Holstein or Guernsey, and from $175 to $350 for young pure-bred cows. Two year old spring grade heifers are selling at from $65 to $90 each while yearling heifers average about $45.

For a neighborhood desiring to go into dairying, by far the best plan is to purchase yearlings and two year old grade heifers and a pure bred sire, and then produce the stock for future herds on the farm. It is much better to follow this slower plan than to buy mature cows. It is also very much less expensive.

At the present price of dairy cows, their production on Kentucky farms should be very profitable. The question frequently arises which breed should be selected. In general, this may be answered by saying that the Jersey and Guernsey cattle will produce butter fat most profitably, while the Holstein is a more economical producer of whole milk. Holstein cows have the advantage of bringing better prices when discarded from the dairy and sold for beef, and their veal calves also bring much better prices than the Jersey or Guernsey calves.

At present there is a boom on both Guernsey and Holstein cattle, while the market is depressed on Jerseys. It would seem that now is a good time to buy well-bred Jerseys of high producing milk strains. It is well known that the Jersey breed furnishes most excellent cattle, though now they are somewhat eclipsed by other breeds. They are almost certain to return to popularity and then the breeder who has developed the proper kind of Jerseys will reap large profits.

It is also well to recall that Kentucky is famous for excellent Jersey cattle and that buyers do not have to leave the state to secure the best possible individuals. Indeed, many buyers from other states come to Kentucky to buy Jerseys and one county, Shelby, has gained the name of the "Jersey Island of America."

It will be a most happy condition when the Kentucky farmers learn the lesson which has been learned by Wisconsin farmers. When that time comes, every section in the state will have a local breeding association, the members of which will confine themselves to the breeding of some particular breed of stock.

The first crop of alfalfa hay at Hindman, Ky., was cut last week, this being exceptionally early.

The well-known horseman J. I. Dodge has bought a 200-acre farm of George H. Whitney, which adjoins his estate near Lexington.

From reports from all over McLean county the wheat crop will be cut in half this year on account of damage by Hessian fly. Cockerel is also bad in many of the fields.

White Clover Honey to be Plentiful.

Last year conditions were favorable for white clover and the result has been an exceptional growth of the plant and a good promise for white clover honey this season. White clover is the chief dependence for honey in some parts of the state, and those having bees should see to it at once that they are in a condition to take advantage of the "honey flow" which will soon be here.

Colonies should be examined to see if the queen is a good one; if not, a new one should be introduced. A little feeding with equal bulks of granulated sugar and water will help in the case of weak colonies, since but little forage has been collected thus far.

The frames and supers to be used should be got in readiness, so there will be no delay when the flow is on. Look after these things now, or have that young man or woman member of your family who has been to the State University, attend to it. These are the youngsters who will do the successful beekeeping in the future. Give them the advantage of your own experience, as well as that they secure in school.

One other suggestion: You are interested in sweet clover. No matter how I have learned this, I want to urge that you sow some of it in odd corners of your place where other things will not grow. By so doing, you will make your beekeeping more profitable and increase the fertility of your farm.

Clean the Hen-House.

The hen-house should be kept clean and the chickens provided with dry, clean places to roost. A good dust powder may be made from one pint of Creso dip No. 1 and three pints of gasoline mixed with enough plaster of Paris or cement to absorb it. This powder should be dusted into the feathers around the base of the tail and under the wings. This should be repeated in about a week in order to kill the young lice that may develop from the eggs or nits. Most of the prepared lice powder will answer this purpose.

Making Sheep Work Overtime.

Press dispatches from the Pacific Coast tell of the illumination of sheep pens by electricity to encourage the animals to eat frequently and so fatten for market in record time. The sheep pens are wired and the light is turned on at four o'clock in the afternoon in winter and burns until nine o'clock. The sheep feed all the time the light is on. It is turned on at four in the morning, and the sheep again begin to feed. It is reported that the frequent feeding brings them to the marketing stage quickly. On the big ranches electricity is being used for all purposes—power for pumping in the irrigation districts and for chopping grain in the winter. —Farmers Home Journal.

The first crop of alfalfa hay was cut last week in Fulton county, Ky., this being exceptionally early for the first crop. The alfalfa crop in that section is about the best paying of all crops, yielding five crops each season. The crop harvested is said to be excellent, the weather also having been ideal for the work. —Farmers Home Journal.

Strawberry Acreage Report.

The acreage in strawberries in the States named below is estimated to be 111,543 acres in 1916, as compared with 93,155 acres in 1915, an increase of 18,388 acres, or 19.7 per cent.

	Acres	Per cent.
New Jersey	5,015	10.0
Delaware	7,349	11.4
Maryland	9,175	5.6
North Carolina	4,416	4.3
Florida	4,275	22.8
Missouri	6,300	45.5
Kentucky	2,225	86.2
Tennessee	17,496	51.0
Alabama	2,502	9.7
Mississippi	2,240	27.1
Louisiana	16,540	10.0
Texas	2,721	18.5
Oklahoma	182	264.9
Arkansas	13,880	50.8
Oregon	3,184	4.7

The big Tennessee berry movement is now under way. It is said 80 per cent of the crop will move this month. There are about 17,500 acres planted to strawberries in Tennessee, which makes it the banner strawberry State of the Union. Until this season Louisiana had the largest acreage, Arkansas with 13,880 is the third largest berry State. Kentucky with two or three important growing points increased its acreage 86 per cent and is now cultivating over 2,000 acres, the largest section being in Warren county.

Stanley and Cohen as Gardeners.

Governor Stanley of Kentucky, is enjoying at the Mansion phases of domestic life that the long sessions of Congress had denied him in recent years. He is making garden. The sun itself scarcely beats him to the onions, tomatoes, potatoes and lettuce in the morning, and he spends the evenings in anticipation and the mornings in contemplation of their growth. Also he takes a personal hand in their encouragement. His indignation at a presumptuous potato bug, which circumstantial evidence pointed to having been on the ground waiting for the plants to come through, proved fatal to the bug and led to a prompt investigation for accessories.

The Executive garden covers more than half an acre and includes everything, even to parsley to garnish the entree; but there is no mint bed.

Commissioner Mat S. Cohen of the Department of Agriculture of Kentucky, also is making garden and he admitted his reputation as a Commissioner of Agriculture was staked upon the outcome.—Exchange.

Practical Economy

Baking powders made from alum or phosphate may be bought for a trifle less than Royal Baking Powder, which is made from cream of tartar, derived from grapes.

Alum powders are not only cheap, but they differ greatly in leavening power.

If a cheap baking powder is used for a fine cake and the cake turns out a failure there is a waste of costly materials worth more than a whole can of the cheap baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder produces the finest food, and its use therefore, results in an actual saving.

LATEST WAR NEWS

Monday

Mexico.—Reports received from the American base in Mexico yesterday said that thirteen members of the Seventh Cavalry had been fired upon by snipers near Temosachic. One trooper was wounded. A band of armed Mexicans is said to be following the American forces in their advance northward and sniping at the rear guard. A report received last night at Marathon made to the effect that a band of 800 Yaqui Indians is menacing Maj. Langhorne's command south of the border in the Big Bend district, and that Col. Sibley, who had almost reached the border, had turned back to the assistance of the American force.

France.—More than 1,300 French, including thirty-one officers, sixteen machine guns and eight cannons, were captured in a new German assault on the Verdun front, in the region of Dead Man Hill, the Berlin War Office announced. Both Berlin and Paris report an aerial attack made upon Dunkirk by German aeroplane squadrons. The French statement says that six persons were killed and thirty-five wounded at Dunkirk. Intensive aerial operations at other points also are reported by Paris. Berlin claims the destruction of five enemy aeroplanes in the course of the day. One fell in the sea, two within the German lines and the others in their own territory.

Mesopotamia.—A force of Russian cavalry has joined the British forces fighting against the Turks on the Tigris. How the Russians effected this important juncture is not known in London, and the story is being awaited with great interest. One of the main objectives of the Russian army in Asiatic Turkey is achieved in part by the union.

Egypt.—An aeroplane attack on Cairo was made Sunday. Sixteen bombs were dropped and two persons killed.

Tuesday

Italy.—The Italians have been driven from their entire position on Lavarone plateau. It is stated that the Italian defeat is steadily becoming more serious. The Austrian lines have been pushed forward rapidly, several additional positions of strategic importance having been captured. The Austrians for their offensive, according to Rome advices, have been heavily re-enforced in men and guns. Since the beginning of the offensive, Vienna asserts, more than 24,000 men have been taken prisoners and 172 cannons have been captured by the Austrians.

France.—The Paris official statement says that the French have penetrated Fort Douaumont, northeast of Verdun, which the Germans stormed and captured February 25, and from which all attempts to drive them had been futile. The Germans still hold the northern part of Fort Douaumont. The Germans have also been forced from ground south of Hill 287 and west of Le Mort Homme.

Mexico.—The flying columns of the Eighth and Fourteenth Cavalry, detailed to give chase to the bandit raiders of Glenn Springs and Boquillas, have returned to American soil. The expedition made prisoners of four of the bandits and left behind two other desperately wounded. The economic situation in Mexico is reported to be extremely grave.

Wednesday

France.—Northeast and northwest of Verdun the struggle is still in progress, the French tenaciously holding the newly captured and strategically important positions of Fort Douaumont and adjacent grounds.

Italy.—The anniversary of Italy's entrance into the war was celebrated yesterday throughout that country with the greatest enthusiasm. The monument of King Victor Emmanuel was buried under flowers. Thousands of messages of loyalty were sent to the King.

England.—The British House of Commons has passed unanimously a vote of credit amounting to about $1,500,000,000. The total credits obtained by Great Britain since the war began are thus raised to about $11,910,000,000.

Germany.—The short crop of 1915 and the reduced imports into Germany have caused an acute scarcity, according to a Berlin semi-official newspaper, but centralization of power in a food dictatorship will solve the problem, it is claimed.

Thursday

France.—The Germans have re-occupied Fort Douaumont, while the French hold the immediate approach to that position. As though to even the score, the French recaptured from the Germans trenches on the outskirts of Cumieres. The fighting around Douaumont is described as furious, with enormous losses resulting. Two new Bavarian divisions are credited with effecting the recapture of the great fort.

England.—As an outgrowth of recent talk of peace, Sir Edward Grey has reiterated in the House of Commons that the time is not yet ripe for peace. It was the duty of diplomacy to maintain the solidarity of the Entente Allies, he said, until a stage of the war had been reached where the prospect of maintaining an enduring peace would be with the Allies.

BEADS ODDLY STRUNG

(By J. H. Thomas.)

Germany's appointing a food Dictator sounds like a hunger cry for peace.

Why doesn't the President advertise for the whereabouts of Villa?

A fool western court convicted a man of libeling George Washington but gave the slime mongers an excuse for rehabilitating all the shortcomings of the great general.

Seven states were added to dry territory last year and seven million gallons were added to the country's consumption of whiskey.

That was a mean thrust of McFluke's about our fishing. It did fall out by an unusual coincidence that Mr. Sutton happened to be fishing somewhere in these parts at about that time, but as to the Green River everybody here knows that we are a total abstainer and have been now for several days.

If the war in Europe were to suddenly close and throw out of employment a million or so American laborers in the munition plants it would play havoc with the Wilson prosperity.

We don't know whether or not the British King takes the Republican but if he does we want to advise him it were better to employ his soldiers in shooting Germans than Irishmen.

Senator Harding, of Ohio, who as the temporary chairman will sound the key note speech at the Chicago convention is mentioned as the most probable dark horse if one is to be nominated. We spent a couple of days with senator Harding on a special train in Eastern Kentucky last fall and formed a high estimate of his fitness for the highest office in the government.

It is the rich iron mines beyond, of which the Germans stand so much in need, that holds them in the face of a deluge of death at the fortress of Verdun.

A loyal but conservative, common-sensed Democrat said to the writer recently, "Right or wrong the business interests of the country distrust the Democratic party, and for that reason times are always better under Republican administration."

It is difficult to comprehend the tremendous influence upon the movement of armies of the recent American invasion, the aeroplane. With the enemy's air scout above them armies can no longer conceal their movements, and the surprise attack that has often decided the fate of empires is no longer possible.

We are just itching to read an old time whole first page mystery murder trial or a big scandal in high life. Hang the war!

The American people fool away a sight of good money for whiskey, tobacco and medicine.

We know how to respect the opinion of those who opposed the road tax but we'll be hanged if we can respect the reasons some of them gave for their opinions.

Mr. Bryan recalls that Wilson was elected against an adverse popular majority of 1,300,000, and says the President's only chance to win this fall is to appeal to the strong peace sentiment in the Republican party. We think this is the closest approach Bryan ever made in his whole life to talking practical politics.

Until we have forgotten the sad scene of a mother's sorrow at the death bed of her son, a wife's broken heart throbs at a husband's bier and the orphan's tears at a father's grave we are opposed to war.

To defend when all honorable avenues of escape are closed is war. Aggression is murder.

The Owensboro Messenger says the Daviess county conventions were attended by less than a hundred and fifty Democrats as against twelve hundred four years ago, and that about the same ratio attended throughout the State. Wilson enthusiasm seems to be at a rather low ebb.

The big vote in Nebraska, Michigan and Pennsylvania primaries for the Peace crank, Henry Ford, for president has alarmed the ultra-preparedness politicians.

Our latest guess on the Republican presidential outlook is that the candidate will come from west of the Alleghenies.
